

PRACTICE AREAS

Our team of seasoned attorneys practice in the areas of construction, government contracts, commercial litigation, business and real estate law. We play an integral role in building and maintaining the nation's infrastructure projects, mass transit systems and real estate developments as we have been doing throughout our more than 100-year history in the Pacific Northwest. Drawing on our team's diverse experience in all facets of construction and government contracts, we help domestic and international companies large and small resolve legal problems that arise out of their public and private projects while protecting their business interests.
